

This technical proposal outlines an online retail platform. The platform handles user accounts, shopping carts, and order processing. The database scales dynamically based on load indicators. We do not have a detailed intellectual property strategy or an assessment of local state operations tax and licensing policy modifications.